

LUX EXPOSÉ

If your passport is gathering dust and your vacation calendar remains blank, don't fret — luxury living in New York City has taken an exciting turn, offering residents the feeling of an international getaway without ever leaving home. Several of the city's most exceptional residential buildings are drawing inspiration from the world's most beloved travel destinations. From the serenity of a Kyoto garden to the breezy charm of the Greek isles, these NYC homes deliver transformative experiences right at your doorstep.

Find Thai Tranquility at 96+Broadway

Thailand's globally admired wellness culture — spotlighted recently in HBO's The White Lotus — takes architectural form at 96+Broadway. This luxurious Upper West Side address elevates the concept of mindful living with an amenity suite that emphasizes serenity and simplicity.

Image Credit: Evan Joseph

Its show-stopping feature is a 75-foot saltwater pool, framed by warm geometric Hemlock wood paneling and travertine flooring, creating an atmosphere of refined calm. The minimalist design mirrors the aesthetics of Thai spas, offering a deeply immersive wellness experience in the heart of the city. For residents, it's a ritual of restoration.

<https://luxexpose.com/nyc-homes-that-feel-like-your-favorite-vacation-spots/>