

LUX EXPOSÉ

Inside the Trendiest Children's Playrooms in High-End Developments

August 25, 2023

In the world of luxury real estate, the concept of a home has evolved far beyond mere shelter. Today, it's about crafting an experience that captures every facet of life, even for the youngest members of the family. As the back-to-school season kicks off, a new trend is taking shape – top-tier residential developments are reimagining children's playrooms into spaces that combine family-friendliness with exquisite design and vibrant style. These spaces aren't just for play; they're for sparking creativity, encouraging learning, and fostering family togetherness.

Let's dive into a selection of these exceptional luxury developments that are rewriting the playbook on children's playrooms.

96+Broadway

At the crossroads of Riverside Park and Central Park stands 96+Broadway, an Upper West Side luxury condominium that captures the essence of sophisticated living. Within its walls lies a children's playroom that echoes the building's commitment to creating a sense of community.

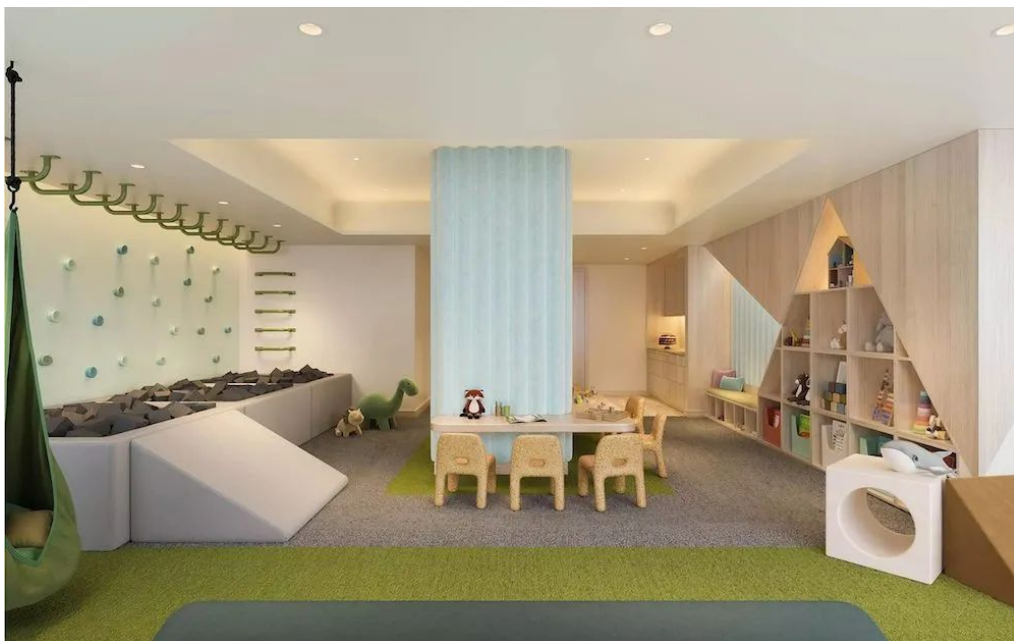

Image Credit: We Are Visuals

Beyond the colorful décor and exciting climbing wall, this playroom is a hub of creativity and exploration. Its design encourages children to unleash their imagination while fostering connections with their peers. From its mural-adorned walls to its various stations, this playroom is a microcosm of the development's vision – a space where families come together, young minds flourish, and bonds are forged.