

Blogs > Styled, Staged & Sold

How a Pop of Pastels Can Cheer Up a Home's Interiors

Create a warm, welcoming space by softening up the color palette.

May 13, 2024

 Staging, Design & Architecture, Design Trends

The softer shades of pastels can bring warmth to a living space, adding color but not in an overwhelming way. Touches of lighter shades can look luxurious and home stagers are turning to the hues to stage properties for sale. See how luxury developments across New York City are embracing the pastel color trend.

96+Broadway

The luxury condominium building, including a residence designed by Urban Casa, blends neutrals with pastel pink patterned wallpaper.

Photo credit: Evan Joseph

Also up against natural light, the home has an accent wall in a pink bedroom to soften up the space.

Photo credit: Evan Joseph